WE NOMINATE

John Winter Gartner, a dedicated member of the profession of teaching for the past 35 years, who this week as one of the four recipients of Princeton Prizes for Distinguished Secondary School Teaching was an honor guest at the University's rain-splattered 215th Commencement. This high distinction, consisting of an individual award of $1,000 and another $250 to his school for the purchase of books, was bestowed upon the 57-year old Gartner in recognition of the exceptional record he has compiled at The Lawrenceville School as departmental chairman, a teacher on all levels, a house master, an able varsity coach and a skilled administrator.

Made possible through the interest and generosity of an anonymous Princeton alumnus, the annual awards competition—now in its fourth year—is open to full-time teachers in New Jersey's 355 approved secondary schools, each of which is permitted a single nominee each year. The terms of the Princeton Prizes, conferred by a seven-member selection committee representing all echelons of New Jersey education, reach far beyond the bounds of the humdrum, for the committee, in screening nominations from scores of institutions, is as concerned with human qualities as it is with purposeful teaching, devoted service and professional achievements.

Gartner's standing on the academic ladder is reflected in this condensation of one of the recommendations supporting his nomination: "Quite aside from the many ways in which he has served Lawrenceville well, his strength is in his qualities of character. He brings to bear a humness of moral conviction together with a compassion and understanding which are rare. When I consult with him I have absolute confidence that he is speaking plainly and on principle—that there is never any trimming of sails." A schoolman applauding Gartner this past Tuesday on the campus in front of Nassau Hall put it another way: "A superb choice, but how I wish he was part of my school!"

A member of the Class of 1927 at Princeton, where he combined solid academic work with stardom on championship basketball and lacrosse teams, Gartner served his teaching apprenticeship at the Princeton Country Day School (then the Princeton Junior School) and moved on to Lawrenceville in 1928. While advancing upwards through faculty ranks, assuming direction of the Department of French and Spanish in 1948 and becoming Chairman of Lawrenceville's Discipline Committee in 1950, Gartner turned out a succession of well drilled basketball teams that at one point won 29 straight games and, over a stretch of three years, 51 out of 53 games.

Gartner more interested in inculcating the ideals of sportsmanship than in developing winning teams—is not the kind of scholastic who withdraws to "the ivory tower." An integral part of one of the country's outstanding private secondary schools, he gave a dozen years of service, first as a member and then as president, to Lawrence Township's School Board and continues to hold forth as a member of a citizens' committee pondering the continuing improvement and expansion of the Township's school system. An avid summertime student in his area of concentration, he is active in professional societies and meets with the French Examination Committee of the College Entrance Examination Board.

For believing that teaching is the most rewarding of all professions; for bringing to whatever task he undertakes a refreshing blend of enthusiasm and competence; for translating his abiding concern for his community into effective contributions to its well-being; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

A PERFECT LANDING

Choir Now In Germany. "There is no question about the Princeton community having done its part," said Borough Superintendent Chester R. Stroup, who announced this week that the Princeton High School Choir reached its goal of $28,000 before it took off by jet Monday night for its month-long music tour of Europe.

The Choir is now in Berlin and will give its first concert there this Thursday.

Delayed by an hour because of a tragic accident in which three State Troopers were killed on the New Jersey Turnpike, the Choir nevertheless took off on its scheduled flight from Idlewild. Involved were "hold-it-we're-coming" phone calls, garbled messages, a mislaid bus and a cooperative KLM airline.

The tour began with a crowded, excited, confetti-strewn farewell at 3 Monday in front of Princeton High School as students, mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters and friends gathered around the choir and its luggage to give a hug and a farewell.

In the half hour before the two big chartered buses finally pulled away from the driveway, there were tears and kisses ("We'll miss you very much"); admonitions ("Careful of those French girls!") and praise ("Gee—it's so wonderful. . . ?") restrained handshakes between boys and girls who weren't quite sure whether they should embrace in public and unrestrained farewells from fathers who didn't care if they were seen hugging their sons.

THEY'RE OFF! Shouts and excitement and a thrill of pride went through the crowd Monday as friends and parents gathered to say "Bon Voyage!" to the Princeton High School Choir. Two buses took the Choir and its luggage to Idlewild for its jet flight to Europe. More on the travelogue in story, this page. (Staff Photo)

A war-whoop and confetti shower broke over the crowd, and a couple of student cars set up a brief horn-tooting salute. Choir members leaned out the bus windows, waved little American flags and squealed to their friends on the walk below.

Finally, the two buses closed their heavy doors and pulled slowly away from the curb in front of the school. Parents blew their noses and went back to their cars and drove home.

Mishap. The two buses were scheduled to stay together on the New Jersey Turnpike and to arrive together at Idlewild International Airport at 5:30. But when they approached Kearney, they found themselves in the tragic tangle of the Turnpike crash which had, only ten minutes before, taken the lives of the state troopers.

"We were really caught," said Dr. Stroup, who rode in one bus as official superintendent of schools and parent (Fred Stroup). "It would have taken a helicopter to get us out of that jam."

With nothing to do but wait, the Choir did. Once in Hoboken, however, Dr. Stroup called the KLM airlines agent and told him, "We expect to be there, but we'll be late."

And late they were. It was 6:35—an hour and five minutes behind time—when the bus rolled into Idlewild. Meanwhile, the two buses had become separated in the Turnpike's turmoil, and no one knew when the second bus would appear.

Flight Rescheduled? KLM informed Dr. Stroup that its Hoboken agent had garbled the Choir message ("They thought OUR bus had broken down," Dr. Stroup said) and that KLM had re-scheduled the Choir for an 11 p.m. flight.

This was disturbing news. It meant that the whole European scheduled would be thrown off by much later arrival. There were conversations with KLM, and finally the airline agreed to hold the flight until the 61 members of the Choir and their chaperones could be processed.

The second bus arrived only five minutes behind the first, the processing began, and at 8:15 p.m., Monday, all 61 Princeton passengers took off from the jet runway.

They arrived in Amsterdam at 2.15 a.m. Tuesday (7:10 a.m. Princeton time) and left for Berlin two hours later.

Princeton Gives. "More than 500 Princeton residents contributed to this trip," Dr. Stroup announced. "We achieved our $28,000 goal and money is still coming in, so we know now that the Board of Education will not have to underwrite the Choir's expenses."

Money came from everywhere. A four-year-old at the Crossroads Nursery School gave one cent because she wanted to join the faculty members who were contributing.

Someone asked us if we remembered this story: An old mother crab (of the hard shell variety) said to her son, "Why do you walk sideways like that, my son? You ought to walk straight." The young crab replied, "Show me how, dear mother, and I will follow your example." The old crab tried in vain, but could not. It was only then that she realized that her words could not overcome he example. When we stop too think about it, it's quite obvious that when we want someone to believe in the things we believe in, we'll not get very far unless we set a good example to follow. Certainly in our business we strive to perform, to fulfill the promise, to set the good example by giving constant attention to the things that are important to you. We figure that we will best serve our own interests by being loyal to your best interests. With us, these are not just words, but the fulfillment of a business creed. May we please serve you? Instead of its usual "class gift," the graduating class at Miss Fine's gave all its gift money —$60—to the Choir Fund. When the contribution was announced at the Miss Fine's commencement exercises, there was a tremendous cheer.

At Pennington Central High School, students held a car-wash and gave all their proceeds to the Choir Fund.

Four churches—First Presbyterian, Methodist, Witherspoon Presbyterian and Mt Pisgah A.M.E.—took up special collections and one congregation contributed $600 in this manner.

Clubs at Princeton High School gave from their treasuries. Businessmen gave, and industries. The three men's service clubs—Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions—volunteered standby support in case the fund missed its goal.

There were no large individual gifts, except for one $500 contribution. Most of the checks came from people who were eager, as one giver put it, "to recognize excellence."

Last Friday, before the Choir left school for its final week-end at home, Dr. Stroup spoke to the group, discussing with them the responsibilities they had ahead of them as young Americans abroad.

"I was greatly impressed by the sincerity of purpose and the sense of mission which these young people have," Dr. Stroup said. "They know they are taking to Europeans an image of American youth, and they are cognizant of great responsibility."

SINGER AND STROUP: Gordon Waldron, Jr., (left) a member of the Princeton High School Choir, waits for the bus that will take him to the airport and discusses the Choir's European music tour with Chester R. Stroup, superintendent of schools. The Choir will return to Princeton July 12.

PERSONALITIES

Mrs. Jane B. Greene, 28 Laurel Road, and Gordon Waldron, 22 Wilson Road, who this week were credited by Schools Superintendent Chester R. Stroup with having played the two leading roles in organizing the successful fund-raising drive to make the Princeton High School Choir's European tour a possibility. Mrs. Greene harnessed parental enthusiasm, the end-products ranging from scores of cash contributions to personally hand-written "thank-you" notes; Mr. Waldron served as general coordinator of the warm-hearted community-wide project. (For other late news of the intercontinental journey, see above and page 19.)

Walker W. Stevenson, Jr., 12 Library Place, whose first worldly possession was not the proverbial silver spoon but an orange and black tie. On Sunday, culminating countless hundreds of hours spent during the past two decades in volunteer service to Princeton University — including presidency of its National Alumni Association — he was elected to a four-year term as an Alumni Trustee.

ROUND-UP

The University's alumni reunion weekend was unmarked by serious accident or theft, both Borough and Township police report . . . car looting was at a minimum, Chief Peter J. McCrohon says, because the University required alumni to park their cars on the athletic fields, thus grouping them and making supervision simpler.

A member of the Class of 1942 (James Blackburn, Grosse Pointe, Mich.) sustained a fairly deep gash in his foot when a horse pulling a surrey in the parade reared up near the gate leading to Clarke Field . . . Mr. Blackburn tried to quiet the animal, which stepped on his leg.

Sleepy commuters boarding trains at Princeton and the Junction early Tuesday morning were the target of leaflets distributed by wide-awake members of the League of Women Voters . . . the pitch was against a possible sales tax in New Jersey, which the League warns would be double taxation . . . a broad-base tax is advocated instead to provide greater State aid to education, highways and hospitals, as well as alleviate high property taxes . . . the quartet handing out the literature was Mrs. Frank Bache, Miss Helen Fairbanks, Mrs. William Blattenberger, Mrs. Cary Peebles.

Random notes: The current Life Magazine has an article on C. William Edwards, outgoing Director of Admission at Princeton, and the University's admissions policy . . . the Lord Mayor of Ulm, Germany, will come to the Institute for Advanced Study Sunday to pay his respects to the memory of Albert Einstein . . . Ulm was the famous physicist's home town.

A thief who robbed a piggy bank belonging to Lawrence Holchkiss, 126 Moore Street, had his hands full . . . he made off with 60 50-cent pieces.

A king-size red and yellow kite, with a five-foot wingspread and hearing resemblance to an old bi-plane without the fuselage, got away from its owner Sunday afternoon . . . last seen flying low over the Bracburn area north of the Shopping Center . . . owner Bert Aschenbrenner, 90 Grover Avenue, would welcome it back.

RAIN DAMPENS DIPLOMAS

At University Commencement. Intermittent showers failed to drive Princeton University's 1075 degree-winners indoors Tuesday, the 215th commencement program proceeding in front of Nassau Hall as scheduled. Several thousand spectators also saw 11 distinguished men receive honorary degrees as a highlight of the ceremonies.

Among this group was U Thant, Acting Secretary-General of the United Nations, who was cited for having maintained in his post "his ideal of objectivity and the pursuit of universal friendship, striving with quiet dignity to achieve his own goal of 'impartiality without neutrality.'" He received the degree of doctor of laws.

Others honored in similar fashion were Donald R. Young, President of the Russell Sage Foundation; Roger W. Jones, Deputy Under Secretary of State for Administration; James M. Hester, President of New York University whose home is in Princeton; J. Irwin Miller, President of the National Council of Churches; and H. Freeman Miller, now retiring as ambassador to Austria.

Rounding out the group were Henry H Callard, headmaster of the Gilman School, doctor of letters; Claude E. Shannon, Professor of Science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, doctor of science; George R. Kistiakowsky, Professor of Chemistry at Harvard, doctor of science; Franklin C. Fry, President of the United Lutheran Church in America, doctor of divinity; and Ben Shahn, artist whose home is in Roosevelt, doctor of fine arts.

Degrees of bachelor of arts or bachelor of science went to 676 members of the Class of 1962. The 399 advanced degrees conferred by the Graduate School represent the largest number awarded in its history.

Eight residents of Princeton and one of Lawrenceville were among the graduating class of 1962: John F. Bales, 3d, 69 Laurel Road; Erhard R. Fernholz, 69 South Stanworth; Keith K. Hazard, 36 Armour Road; William R. Kales, 8 Morven Place; William S. Kearns, 154 Mercer Street; David V. W. Schaeffer, The Great Road; John T. Woodward, 3d, 15 Hodge Road; Denis B. Wright, 220 Mercer Street, all of Princeton; and Edward G. Thurber, Brook House, Lawrenceville.

"IT ALL STARTED WITH SOME MUSIC REVIEWS IN TOWN TOPICS." So says the caption on this picture of duelling figures in Battlefield Park—typical of the booklet, "Only In Princeton," published by a group of University faculty wives. Meredith Langberg was the artist for this and other sketches, billed as "A Misguided Tour of Local Landmarks."

BOROUGH CREATES POST

Of Administrator. An ordinance providing for a Borough administrator was approved Tuesday by the mayor and council. The public hearing will be held July 10 at Borough Hall.

The post, in effect, will broaden the responsibilities of Robert F. Mooney, Borough clerk and comptroller. A companion ordinance amended the salary by an additional $500.

—ART BACHELOR

Sheep, people and anything else that ventured outside got wet this week as the long drought broke with a resounding splash. From early Tuesday until Wednesday afternoon, almost as much rain (upwards of three inches) as the month of June usually brings cascaded down on the once-baked out land.

As a result, it will be cooler for the next few days. Generally fair through the weekend, with just a slight possibility of Sunday afternoon showers.

planning board for a period of six years.

Mrs. Ahrens, who has served as acting director for the past three months, has broad experience in welfare work. "We're extremely fortunate to have her," William H. Walker II, Council president, said. She was appointed for five years. Council noted that Mr. Moore, who was recently hospitalized, had been an invaluable member of the planning board.

The annual Firemen's parade and inspection by the mayor and council will be held at 7:30 p.m. on June 29. The parade will move down Nassau Street to Olden.

THIEVES RANSACK HOME

On Springdale Road. Thieves broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Garrigues, 18 Springdale Road, last month while the owners were away, ransacked the home, and stole almost $3000 in money, jewelry and clothing. Since then, Borough Chief of Police Peter J. McCrohan reported that his department had a lookout stationed near the house, hoping the thieves would return, but to no avail.

Mrs. Garrigues reported that a $2400 pearl necklace, was missing, $300 in cash, $174 in silver dollars, and an undetermined amount of women's clothing. Police dusted the entire house for fingerprints but found nothing. Entry was gained by forcing a cellar window, they said.

FIVE HURT SLIGHTLY

In Kingston Road Mishap. Five persons were injured slightly Thursday afternoon when Donald H. Koch, 27, 300 Ewing Street, went through a stop sign at the foot of Poe Road and struck a car driven by Mrs. Patricia Gemberling, 22, 24 Church, Kingston, on the Princeton-Kingston Road.

Injured were Mrs. Gemberling, her seven-month-old daughter, Donna Marie, and Mrs. Margaret Logan, 5 Union Street, Kingston. All were in the Gemehrling car. Mr. Koch, and John B. Beckling, 4 Dillon Road, Franklin Park, a passenger in his car, were also injured—the latter was the only one requiring admission to Princeton Hospital. Township police issued a summons to Mr. Koch for failing to stop at a stop sign.

Bus Hits Car. Lyman Rhodes, 19, Hun School student, and a surburban bus operated by Louis J. Lobmayer, 36, of New Brunswick, came together at 1 o'clock last Thursday morning at the Kingston Bridge. No one was seriously hurt.

State Police report that the bus driver did not keep to the right, failed to negotiate the first bridge and struck the Rhodes car which was heading south at approximately 20 miles per hour. Mrs. Lobmayer was issued a summons.

Miss Katherine Adams, 17, 158 Hun Road, a passenger in Mr. Rhodes' car, was treated at the Princeton Hospital for lacerations of the forehead. Mr Rhodes was uninjured. His car was demolished, police said.

92 TO GRADUATE

From Witherspoon. At the Witherspoon School closing assembly this Thursday at 10 a.m., 92 eighth graders will receive their certificates from Dr. Chester R. Stroup, Borough Superintendent of Schools.

The Rev Donald M. Meisel, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will deliver the graduation address and Howard B. Waxwood, principal of the school, will present prizes and awards. A woodwind quartet composed of Michael Schultz, Barbara Libbey, Benay Abrams and Kathy Madison will perform, and Susan Mills will play a piano solo.

Those who are graduating are:

Benay Abrams, John Ahrens, Pamela Anderson, David Bailey, Laurel Bain, Dennis Bain, Mary Beidler, Velma Betts, James Bird, James Blazakis, Penelope Brooks, Glenn Brown.

GIVE ME THAT OLD SOFT SHOE: Veteran troupers, probably from the Orpheum Circuit, will appear in a soft-shoe routine during the intermission "olio" at the Community Players' production of "The Drunkard," opening this Thursday at Murray Theatre for an extended run. Left to right are Jim Barron, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Ray Barron; Mary Bayer, daughter of Mrs. Peggy Longstreth Bayer, and Berry Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh C. Hoffman. The tune? Why, "Strolling Through the Park," of course! (Parker Hayden Photo)

News Of The THEATRES

READY TO WEEP?

"Drunkard" Here. Sinister depredations, trials and tribulations and morality a foot thick are all a part of "The Drunkard," that stalwart 19th century morality play which will open this Thursday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre under the righteous banner of Princeton Community Players.

"The Drunkard" (or, "The Fallen Saved") will be given also this Friday and Saturday and again the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday, all at 8:30.

During the intermissions — scheduled so that the audience can recover its equilibrium after the harrowing events of each act — various talented performers will appear in the "olio" and members of the audience may indulge in free refreshments.

There will be a daring can-can performed by a delectable group of Princeton housewives, a troupe of singers and a ravishing chorus of dancers, to say nothing of a cast of distinguished actors who portray the leading roles in this spectacular production.

Tickets may be obtained at the University Store or at the Murray Theatre box-office for $2 (Friday and Saturday performances) or $1.25 Thursdays). Reservations may be made through Mrs. John Drury, WA 4-0575.

"REUNION SHOWCASE"

Three Plays Given. In a production designed to show returning alumni what has been going on in undergraduate theatricals, Theatre Intime, in cooperation with McCarter Theatre, presented Friday and Saturday a trio of one-act plays rarely performed and even more rarely read.

The offerings were "Passion, Poison and Petrifaction" by Bernard Shaw, "X = 0, A Night of the Trojan War," by John Drinkwater and "Calvary" by William Butler Yeats.

Intended to be the showpiece of the evening, the Yeats play presented Intime at its most experimental, searching for ways to combine poetry, drama, music, dance and symbolism into a meaningful unity.

Brooks Jones gave thoughtful and imaginative direction to the brief glimpse of Christ's last agony, as He hears from a bitter Lazarus who yearns for the death he was denied, from a cynical Judas who flexes the power he feels in having betrayed a God and from the three leering soldiers who wait for His death so that they may have His garments.

The actors wore facades in the form of white masks executed by Patricia Zipprodt and particularly effective on the three obscenely prancing soldiers, portrayed by Cora Cahan, Toni Lacativa and Jane Kosminsky.

Gus Solomons, Jr., the young M.I.T. student who doubles as dancer and choreographer, performed the role of Christ with power and tension, wrapping his incredibly long and graceful limbs about a Y-shaped cross in attitudes at once resigned and despairing.

Yeats' verse was read, for the most part, by John Lithgow as "A Young Man" and it was sung, in part, by the clear, fine-spun soprano of young Tucky Ramus. The music was memorable (Conrad Susa wrote it) and well-performed, but the words were sometimes difficult to catch, even in Miss Ramus' finely articulated soprano

For "Calvary," Ben Shahn designed and Gillian McManigal painted a show-cloth of a giant heron to echo the symbolism in the Yeats' verse.

"Calvary" is what might be called Early Off-Beat, but it reads better than it performs, in spite of Mr. Jones' well-knit direction, the evocative music and Mr. Solomons' spare choreography.

John Drinkwater's anti-war story "X = 0" is a vignette of the Trojan War in which two Greek warriors, resting in the night, long for home. One, a poet, listens while his friend outlines the grim and bloody assignment he has that night on the walls of Troy.

In the next scene, two Trojan warriors, resting in the night, speculate on the friendships they might have had with the Greeks whom another's quarrel has made their enemies. One, a sculptor, listens while his friend outlines the grim and bloody assignment he has that night in the Greek camp. The two assignments cross paths and bring death to the Greek poet and death to the Trojan sculptor.

It is a brief drama, not original in conception or in poetry, but well-acted as Rod McManigal directed it for Intime. George Blanchard as the Greek killer and Dan Deitch as the Trojan killer were particularly good.

Electronic music composed by Milton Babbitt provided the musical settiog for "X = O" and proved, to this listener at any rate, disappointingly like the sound of an electronic organ. Mr. Babbitt's conceptions were impeccable, and certainly proper ones for a story of stealth, war by night, and the philosophic musings of men tired of war, but the timbre remained unfortunately reminiscent of a lesser instrument

For a complete change of mood, Intime chose to give Shaw's farce — an understated definition if there ever was one — "Passion, Poison and Petrifaction", surely written by Shaw as fast as his pencil could write, and at a very early, very untried age.

Wild, slapstick farce (the first two rows of customers got quite a shave of seltzer water), satire so broad that its point is totally blunted and the most preposterous kind of overacting are all part of the scheme in this Shavain marshmallow.

There is no possible point in outlining the plot, because nobody would believe it. The thing unfolds in jerks and spasms and seizures and everything is all very well done, — student director George Blanchard has seen to that — but my goodness!

At any rate, it was good fun to watch after the sobriety of the two previous plays, and it served, with the other two offerings, to tell alumni and townsfolk that Theatre Intime people are a highly versatile and deeply serious group capable of thoughtful and inventive productions when there is not a trace of the slipshod.

"DRUM SONG" PLAYING

At Lambertville. Incorporating such favorites as "I Enjoy Being A Girl," "You Are Beautiful," "Chop Suey" and "Sunday," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Flower Drum Song" continues at the Lambertville Music Circus through this Sunday.

Set in San Francisco's Chinatown, "Flower Drum" tells its love story against a background of the racial and familial tensions encountered by Chinese, Americans and Chinese-Americans.

Tim Herbert, who created

AT NEW HOPE: James Daly appears in "The Advocate," on view at the Bucks County Playhouse through June 23.

the role of Sammy Fong for the London company of "Flower Drum," repeats it at Lambertville and Michi Kobi, who plays the tempestuous Linda Low, repeats the part she played last summer at the Sacramento Music Fair.

Performances at the Music Circus are given Tuesdays through Fridays at 8:30 p.m., Saturdays at 6 and 9:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7:30 p.m.

PLAY HAS PREMIERE

At New Hope. "The Advocate," a play based on the Sacco-Vanzetti case, is now on view at the Bucks County Playhouse following its world premiere Monday night. The Robert Noah drama will run through Saturday, June 23.

In "The Advocate," Alfred Drakes directs a cast headed by James Daly who plays the title role, that of the lawyer who sought re-trial for Sacco and Vanzetti and who made their final, unsuccessful appeal to the state of Massachusetts.

Mr. Daly last appeared on Broadway in "Period Of Adjustment" and won TV recognition as the leading player in the "Foreign Intrigue" series. He also appeared in two films, "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell" and "The Young Stranger."

Carlo Mazzone and Dina Fazio play Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who were executed in 1927 for robbery and murder in a case considered by many to be a classic example of the miscarriage of justice.

TENT OR RENT?

Pitch and Save. We wrote a check to the landlord the other day and the experience was so shattering that we stopped by Tiger Auto to see whether we could save by pitching a tent somewhere.

Turned out we were dreaming, but we did discover how much cheaper it can be to tent on the old camp ground during vacation. You can buy a tent at Tiger (no mortgage, no down payment) for $50, a tent so commodious that it will sleep everybody in the family even if you have nine children. It is, unfortunately, too small to accomodate one's mother-in-law, but sacrifices must be made somewhere.

If you are not in the $50 tent market, Tiger can produce one much cheaper and not too much smaller. In fact, the stock goes down to a puptent for $5.95. (Give Pop a pop-up tent for Father's Day.)

With the tent, you will want air mattresses, and Tiger has them from $1.25 on up to rubber fabric ones for $12. Sleeping bags start at $8.49 and range to $25, for a sleeping bag that has everything but innersprings and an electric blanket.

Thermos has made a splendid ice-box at $24.98 which incorporates the foam insulation that is used to make a complete, inexpensive box at $13. Thermos adds a fine, sturdy plastic box around this lining and provires a cooler that is quite as efficient as the refrigerator you have at home, except that it doesn't make ice.

At the other end of the thermal scale, we find Tiger's Bernz-O-Matic kit for barbecuing. In this $6.98 kit, you get a pancake turner, a pair of long, strong, tongs and a Bernz-O-Matic torch.

At first, we thought you cooked the steak by passing the torch over it several times, but Tiger hastily assured us that this was the wrong approach. You use the torch to kindle the charcoal fire in a hurry, and THEN you cook the steak. The torch has other, more vegetarian uses in the winter, like welding things and the like, but for now, it's for charcoal.

Kook-out makes a grill, with a spit or without, for about $16.50, but you can have a little grill for only $2.98, if you like minute steaks.

Our favorite bit of merchandise in the Witherspoon Street store is a wading pool a full 30 inches across, made of plastic, and so small it looks like a bobbing bath toy. It is, in a way, because it will float in a larger wading pool and give the very youngest in the family a room all his own. Two corner seats, in case he wants company.

Older water sports will buy those water skis from $16.95 to $30., and the tow ropes, ski belts and water to go with them. Boaters will want the Coast Guard-approved seat float cushions for $3.25.

Skin divers have already discovered the supply of swim material at Tiger, and we mention it only to remind. Masks, fins, snorkles, fibreglas surfboards, canvas or rubber-coated surfboards and the most complex diving equipment are all available.

JULY IS NIGH

Shop Closes July 1. After July 1, The Money Tree on Alexander Street will lock up shop until after Labor Day, so you had better make a point.

At the moment, white on white crewel is the most unusual and spectacular offering at the shop. This creamy fabric, 54 inches wide; hand-woven in wool on heavy cotton by male embroiderers in India, is the most exotic fabric you could imagine. Easily dyed (the wool will be dark against the cotton), the crewel can be laundered and sewn into almost any shape you wish. Bedspread? Drapes?

Smaller offerings from The Money Tree includes 50 cents place mats made of straw-like linen, and a magnificent Indian knife ($6.95) marvelous for picnics because it comes in a brass and carved wood sheath which would keep it from stabbing everybody and getting ham all over the watermelon.

Hand-woven overblouses from Guatemala are darkly striped in tomato reds and golds, or in red, royal and oyster. They are fashioned with square, low pockets, no sleeves and straight neck out

How Many Wheels?

One! Think of the saving on tires and spokes. Ever think that the unicycle might be the answer to your transportation problems (it certainly would have helped on Nassau Street over Reunion Weekend)?

Anyhow, Tiger Auto has a couple of unicycles on hand for people with only one leg. There is a master model at $49.95 and a slightly more subservient model at $39.95, both supple, sturdy, strong, with solid, comfortable seats and lots of nice grass underneath to catch you when you fall off.

We have a friend who rides one all the time. You should see him slalom on a croquet court.

Theatre After All?

Final approval of a building inspector is all that stands between The Princeton Players and a season of summer theatre for the Princeton community.

Theatregoers who watched the group last year expected a dark stage this summer because the Players had difficulty finding a home. Even now they are not in a position to announce a location, but they hope to by next week.

Both the Princeton Community Players and Princeton Theatre Intime have offered the summer company fullest support in equipping their theatre.

Paul Gleckler, Princeton '62, will again be producer for the group. Mr. Gleckler will be remembered by winter audiences for his direction of Pirandello's "Henry IV."

News Of The Theatres

beautiful Lee Remick in a thriller which ranges from San Francisco's plush spots to Chinatown. The story is one of those cat-and-mouse games between a psycopathic killer and the police.

Blake Edwards, who produced, has directed at a swift and dynamic pace that makes more imaginative use of settings than any picture of this type since "North By Northwest." Glenn Ford plays the stalwart FBI man and Lee Remick is the lovely pawn of both criminal and police. Ross Martin as the killer, gives excellent support. Comment: absorbing suspense show, notable most of all for its keen sense of "place."

Escape from Zahrain (June 20-23) is an action-packed story of four escaped prisoners who flee across the Arabian desert in an ambulance truck pursued by police and strafed by government planes. The leads are played by Yul Brynner, as the turbaned revolutionary leader; Jack Warden, embezzler of large sums from the Zahrain Oil Company; Tony Caruso, a sadistic murderer, and Jay Novello, a crime-of-passion murderer.

They are accompanied by Sal Mineo, zealous university student who led the attack on the police van from which the prisoners escaped, and by Madlyn Rhue, a European-educated Arabian nurse, who was on the ambulance when the escapees commandeered it for their flight to the border and freedom. James Mason makes a brief appearance as the urbane English gentleman who is maintenance man at the oil company's outpost. The movie was filmed in the Mojave desert, in color. Comment: modern Arabian adventure.

DRAMA AT THE PLAYHOUSE: Glenn Ford and Lee Remick in "Experiment In Terror," now showing here.

THE GARDEN

Roses for the Prosecutor (June 13-19) was a winner at the Berlin Film Festival. Its star, Walter Giller, and the screen play took first awards; the film shared honors with "The Bridge" as best full-length feature. Set in late World War II and the years immediately following, the story revolves around Pvt. Rudi Kleinschmidt, played by Giller, who is courtmartialed and sentenced to death for buying two bars of chocolate on the Dutch black market. The execution is snafued by strafing planes and Rudi escapes.

In the postwar years, Rudi becomes a street peddler and is befriended by seductive Ingrid Van Bergen, as Lissy Flemming, waitress turned restaurant owner. He meets Dr. Schramm, played by Martin Held, the man who prosecuted him during the war. Dr. Schramm is in hot water as State Prosecutor because he has allowed an anti-semetic professor to escape trial. Schramm feels he can save face by capturing Rudi. The ensuing drama is exciting and amusing. Comment: tragi-comedy with English sub-titles.

The Devil's Eye (June 20-26). Ingmar Bergman's imagination as script-writer and director knows no bounds in this film. Although he borrowed the story idea from an old proverb, allegedly Irish: "A woman's chastity is a sty in the Devil's eye," and the plot device is based on countless legends about persons the devil has allowed a short leave from Hell to perform some special deed on earth, he has turned out a wholly original and wholly delightful film. The depiction of Hell and its residents is droll, and the desire of the minister to catch a demon in his cupboard is an amusing conceit. Bergman directs with his usual stunning skill and the cast is excellent. Comment: a merry show for adults.

Heavier than homespun, canvas in bright blues, greys and reds or multicolor stripes, appears in a drawstring bag big enough to hold beach sandals and a bathing suit. Matching, and included in the $4.95 price, is a pert little hat whose drawstring makes a hole in the top. Brim pops either up or down, as you decide.

The Spaniards have made a dispenser (what it dispenses, is up to you) shaped like a bright yellow lemon, some 15 inches tall with a standard of glazed pottery logs and a spigot to dispense with, if you follow our meaning. $17.50.

The Italians have made six small place mats in straw, with six even smaller mats for goblets and two square mats for decanters. They come in natural, toast or navy, $6.95 for the 14 pieces.

And get there before July 1!

SANDALS AND SAKE

Oriental Food. When you stop in at Kung Ping on Witherspoon Street to buy your summer thong sandals (straw ones for 50 cents) all the way up to leather ones with rubber soles for $2.50), be sure to look at the little corner pantry for Oriental delicacies.

Thong sandals come in men's, women's and children's sizes, with tabi sox to wear. Canned Oriental foods come in all sizes, too, except the large economy.

We like the idea of Makizushi no Moto, little vegetable rolls made with bean curds, gourd shavings, mushrooms, soy sauce and sugar.

If you would like a relish or a side dish to eat with fish or chicken, choose the Kasuri-Narazuke, white melon prepared with saki and sugar, or the pickled radishes. It turns out that these pickled radishes are not a question of pulling up what grows in your garden. "Radish" in this sense is the Chinese turnip, and the label on the can says "Takuwan Zuke," which may well be the case.

Cooks who disdain food eaten right out of the can will use Honkuzuko, a root flour for specialized Japanese recipies, or the rice flour, Shiralamako.

Cuttlefish with salt; dried herring roe and canned Lichi nuts are on the shelf, too, along with Japanese green tea.

Should you be unnerved by all this, Kung Ping will sell you, for 25 cents, a cookbook with Japanese recipies.

DOGLOVERS THREE: A boy is probably a dog's best friend and the beleaguered dogs in this area have three in Lawrence Spencer, (left) Steven Sherman and Nicholas Knoor, all members of Valley Road School. For their opinion on total restraint, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Are you in favor of or opposed to total restraint of dogs in Princeton?

Where asked: Around town.

Lawrence Adler, 287 Walnut Lane, 11, sixth grade Valley Road School: I don't think it should be carried out to any great extent. The dogs that go after kids and nip at them should be watched carefully but I'm not for tying them up because a dog could twist his leash or rope or whatever he's tied with and strangle himself. I think there should be some restrictions, especially on dogs that run in packs, but not total restraint. Basically, I would say owners should keep a close watch on their dogs and when they are not at home, they should lock up their dogs in the house or take them with them.

Steven Sherman, 170 Terhune Road, 10, fifth grade, Valley Road: Well, I have a dog and she barks a lot but she never bit anybody. The trouble is the kids tease the dogs a lot. Some hunters also train their dogs in a very cruel way. One method they use is not to feed them until they are not gun-shy anymore. When they get loose, they want the kids' lunches.

Mrs. Leon Lapidus, Galbreath Drive, housewife: With me, it's a case of comme ci, comme ca. Actually, I'm for it, for myself, but for my children, no. I don't like dogs coming in and tearing up my garden and lawn. I can do without them. But the children love them so! It seems a shame to restrain dogs because of the children. We don't have a dog, but our kids get a great deal of enjoyment out of the neighbors' dogs.

Norman Mackie, 91 Edgerstoune: I'm opposed. I don't like the principle. This idea of building pens . . . I would like to see a more moderate ordinance, well-enforced. There is an analogy in the human sphere: some people are bad and have to be locked up. But just because 5 percent are, you don't go around and lock up the other 95. We've had dogs for years and never had a bit of trouble.

Mrs. Richard Parsells, 32 Jefferson Road, housewife: Definitely opposed. I think you've got the wrong end up: it would be better to restrict people, particularly children. Usually, when a child teases a dog, the dog will naturally jump around and possibly nip the child. I think there is always a reason when a dog bites a person or child. Instead of restricting dogs, we should teach children and people how to treat dogs.

Miss Brenda Tote, 23 Erdman Avenue, PHS student: I'm opposed. Princeton is a small community and I think dogs should be allowed to run around.

Nicholas Knorr, 23 Laurel Road, 12, sixth grade, Valley Road: I'm against it. Not all dogs are bad. People wouldn't like to be tied up; dogs don't like it either. There should be some restrictions because I know that some dogs travel in packs and that some bite people and it is possible that some of the dogs might have rabies. But I don't think it should go as far as total restraint.

Michael Reich, 184 Loomis Court, 12, 6th grade Valley Road: If they have total restraint, they should enforce it because when you take a dog on the leash and other dogs aren't on a leash, there is confusion. Dogs on the leash run after dogs not on the leash. I don't think it is needed yet. There should be some restriction for dogs that are biting people but not for all dogs.

Richard Perna, 149 Hodge Road, student, Colorado State University: From the standpoint of safety for the children, I feel something should be done, but I don't think it should be carried to the point of total restraint. I think that's heartless. I feel the individual dog owner knows whether or not his dog has a tendency to bite and should be tied up. I've had a dog ten years and I've never tied him up and he's never bothered anybody.

Mrs. Clarence H. Rodenfeld, 766 Princeton-Kingston Road, housewife: Yes, I'm in favor of total restraint. In summer months, especially, dogs are apt to be troublesome. I think for everybody concerned, including the dogs, it is a good idea to have total restraint. We have a dog and I keep her tied up so I can keep an eye on her. I don't believe in letting them run wild.

Mrs. Nancy Spackman, Pennington-Lawrenceville Road, housewife: I would be violently opposed. If it came to the point of restraining dogs, there would be no point in having one.

Karl Kavenagh, 36 Stanworth Drive, retired rubber manufacturer: No, I'm not in favor of total restraint but I do feel that dog owners should certainly care enough to see that their dogs do not wander at large, as so many dogs do. This is a problem concerning the owners of dogs, not the dogs themselves.

Mrs. Minot C. Morgan Jr., 36 Mercer Street, housewife: Opposed. If people can't control children, they can't control dogs, either. Dogs and children are the same: both are the responsibility of the parents.

Mrs. Andrew Hull, Shaw Drive, Kingston, assistant librarian, Firestone Library: Opposed. I own a dog and I let her run. I can't see tying dogs up unless they are a nuisance. I don't think all dogs should be penalized because of a few.

Mrs. Edwin H. Rian, Snowden Lane, housewife: I think there is a happy medium between the two. Total restraint, as I understand it, says that if a dog goes on a neighbor's property, he is trespassing. That isn't a practical law. I think the Township should hire a dog control officer who

A would be respoonsible for rounding up stray dogs. Another thing I feel very strongly about is the number of dogs. More and more families have not just one dog, but two or even three. It's like cars: one isn't enough today. A steady parade of dogs comes over our property all the time. I see a new dog at least every week. I've never seen so many dogs. I think something should be done about that. On a farm it's all right to have as many animals as you wish, but when you live in close proximity to neighbors, there should be a limit. Four of my immediate neighbors have two dogs apiece and one has three. Fortunately, the neighbors on either side of me have complete control of their dogs, but what about home-owners who might not be as fortunate as we?

RADIO STATION WHWH

Presents

Program Highlights In The Community Interest

Almost four years ago, three companies were formed to vie for a new radio station to be allocated by the FCC to Princeton, New Jersey. On February 6, 1962, the FCC awarded this new station to the Nassau Broadcasting Company on the basis that "the public interest, convenience and necessity will be served best" by this company. As a community-oriented station, we are proud to present highlights of our programs as proposed to the FCC and as they will be scheduled for your enjoyment and enlightenment.

WHWH Programs and Services

Broadcast schedule: 6 a.m. to midnight.

News Programs

Each hour, and occasionally more often, local, national, and international news will be presented. Such local news, broadcast hourly and daily for the first time to the citizens of Princeton, Hopewell, and Hightstown, will also include News Commentary by some of the outstanding national and international figures living in and around the Princeton-Hopewell area.

One news program of special interest to local people will be Stop and Go, every morning at 7:15 and 7:45 a.m., which will advise local commuters about trains, school announcements (particularly pertinent during storms), bus schedules, and traffic conditions in the immediate coverage area.

Educational Programs

Among the programs which will be produced in conjunction with various schools and colleges in the Princeton, Hightstown, New Brunswick, Hopewell, Pennington and Trenton area are:

Adventure in Music: A music appreciation course, four nights a week, one half hour each.

The Classics: Sunday afternoon commentary on the Sunday symphony to be played.

Around the World: A "Travelogue" program conducted by world-wide travellers living in and around the area.

The Old and New: Past and present history of communities in the area, as history and as it relates to the present and future.

Precept: An educational series four nights a week, patterned after Princeton University's famous precept system.

Religious Programs

Chapel Service: Every morning, as recorded the previous day in the Princeton Theological Seminary chapel service.

Old Testament Bible Study: A half hour weekly program produced for the Jewish Faith.

Protestant Worship Service: Sunday mornings at 11 a.m., direct from various Protestant churches in Princeton, Hopewell, Hightstown, occasionally from other communities.

The Catholic Hour: A one hour program each Sunday to be produced by the Catholic Church.

Princeton Pastor's Panel: A half hour each Sunday, programmed by the Princeton Pastor's Association.

Family Worship: A 15-minute program, produced in cooperation with area churches, a different family each week.

Choirloft: A half hour Sunday program of choir music by school and church choirs in the area.

Vespers: A two minute program conducted by ministers of all faiths in the area, one each evening.

Sports Coverage

College, university and school sports of interest will be broadcast play-by-play. Regular sports news of the communities in the area will be broadcast each evening.

Music Policy

Music and news dominate a good radio station. The music policy of WHWH will be principally what is known as "good" music — popular, traditional, entertaining music, circumventing popular fad music such as rock 'n roll. One exception to this music policy will be a daily Teenage Disc Jockey Show wherein two teenagers, through arrangements with their school or service organization, will appear on the air each day, selecting their favorite records.

Dance Party will be on every Saturday night from 8 p.m. to midnight with dance music of the all time top dance bands. Through schools, YMCA, service and youth canteens, dance parties will be encouraged under adult chaperones.

Public Affairs Programs

Time For Debate: A weekly half hour program using the Whig-Clio debating technique, open to governments, civic groups and individual associations and political candidates in order to bring to all people in the area both sides of significant issues.

Citizen of the Week: Portraits of outstanding citizens of the Princeton-Hopewell-Hightstown area. Fifteen minutes a week.

Campus Interview: 15-minutes once a week with outstanding or interesting students or faculty members from various area campuses.

Tell It To The Mayor: 15 minutes weekly alternately open to Mayors of Princeton Borough and Township, Hopewell Borough and Township, and Hightstown.

Open Mike: An hour (or more if the situation demands) direct from a borough or township hall as governments and citizens discuss and debate local issues.

Special Events: Special programs will be carried as pertinent and timely relative to such organizations as the YMCA, the United Fund, seasonal religious special programs, graduations, coverage of visiting dignitaries, special police or medical reports to the area population, disaster coverage, etc.

Youth Speaks Up: A weekly half-hour program (originally proposed by the YMCA) to provide an opportunity for youth to speak out on issues with or to their elders.

These are some of the programs originally conceived and developed by the Directors of WHWH after consultation with over 130 leading citizens in the area for the benefit of the community at large. We regret we have been delayed in starting these worthwhile programs for you. We will keep you advised.

Choir Is Grateful.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The members of the Princeton High School Choir would like to thank publicly all the people of Princeton who have helped by donations of time, money and suggestions to send the choir on a month's tour of Europe this summer.

We would like to thank the people who wrote letters, who answered telephones, who printed signs and helped to place them in strategic areas of Princeton. And, of course, we thank all those people who have helped to raise the $28,000 needed for the tour.

We can only point out the obvious — that without the combined help of all these wonderful people the choir would not be going to Europe at all. Every member of the choir would like to thank personally everyone who helped make the tour possible. Since this is not feasible, we take this opportunity to thank you in this letter.

We are aware of the responsibility of being personal representatives of Princeton and of the United States. We shall do everything in our power to merit your interest and support.

The Princeton
High School Choir

To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of the Princeton High School Choir I would like to thank you for your considerable part in awakening the interest of the community and encouraging public support for our European tour.

Your many articles and editorials concerning the choir have directly aided us in raising the money we need. We shall try to do our very best as representatives and as performers to justify the enthusiasm you have shown on our behalf.

SUSAN KILBON
Secretary,
Princeton High School Choir

Majority Is Too Small.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

At the June 5th meeting of the Princeton Borough Planning Board, it was proposed to change that body's by-laws to provide that a vote of a majority of a quorum would constitute a legal enabling vote.

As a clarification, the Board comprises nine members; a quorum of nine is five; and a majority of that number is three. In other words, the proposed revision would permit three members of the Board to pass measures to which the other six members might well be firmly opposed.

To a statement from the audience regarding the undesirability of such a possibility, a member of the Board replied that: "All important matters are aired at public hearings, so that it doesn't really matter."

But who will determine what are "important matters" to the residents of the Borough—the majority of the Board, or the majority of the quorum?

Princetonians are urged to inform the Planning Board that Borough residents insist upon true representation of their needs and an honest majority vote of the full Planning Board in all measures proposed.

God Lent A Helping Hand.

Just read an article in the "Topics" concerning Mike Cullen of Hopewell.

Wanted you to know about another wonderful neighborhood near Hopewell, where the same thing is happening. This is Montgomery Township, Orchard Road, Skillman.

Our grandson is like Mike. He had two major brain operations and each time wasn't expected to live. He was premature and born with a blood clot on the brain, which formed adhesions and was crowding out the brain.

The parents took him to specialists in different fields and no one suggested any help. A friend at a church supper, Mrs. Robert Reed, suggested to my daughter-in-law, Gloria Hendrickson, that she take him to Children's Hospital. What a wonderful place that is!

Gloria had never been to our Dutch Neck church to a supper, and that night she came bringing the little one. Seems as if God was lending a helping hand as this friend, Mrs. Reed, spoke to Gloria, who was a stranger to her, suggesting Children's Hospital at Philadelphia, where soon after the first appointment the two major brain operations were performed.

Our grandson, Kerry Hendrickson, came home from the operations without any sight, no speech, and in very sad condition. Several months later the Children's Hospital suggested the Rehabilitation Center at Chestnut Hill.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT: Linda Almgren will provide TOWN TOPICS' readers with weekly reports on the Princeton High School Choir's European tour. Linda, who will enter Wellesley College in the fall, is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah W. Almgren, 20 Southern Way.

A year ago this month, Kerry had his first appointment. The exercises were started. The wonderful Christian neighborhood they live in volunteered to help. Through rain, snow, hot weather, etc., they faithfully come to take their turns.

The Wilmer Starks, the Clifford Tafts, the Stewart Snedekers, the Walter Raymonds, the Bob Leighs, and many friends, who drop in have helped May God bless them all. Where else but America could such wonderful people live?

Today Kerry, who was 6 years old in January, can see very well. He can say many words and put words together trying to hold a conversation. He knows some of the letters of the alphabet. He takes the same exercises as Mike Cullen. Has to crawl as Mike has to crawl.

The doctors say eventually he'll be able to live a normal life. We have lots to thank God for.

How do you give recognition to such truly wonderful neighbors? All I wish is that they will be rewarded for their love and understanding and for helping our children, Gavin and Gloria Hendrickson, in their time of need.

The neighbors only have to come twice a day now as the older brother, Davron, 8 years old, has learned to do the exercises and he does the early a.m. one and the late p.m. one with his mother and father.

A grateful grandmother.
MRS. JOHN HENDRICKSON

Princeton Is One. Not Two.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton community has been treated in the past few weeks to further episodes of a continuing comedy called, "How to Remain Two Communities While Claiming To Be One." This farce has been playing for years while real and substantial problems have continued to mount until Princeton is now faced with a near-crisis in one area after another.

Two weeks ago, Republican Mayor Patterson, presumably with approval from his six Republican councilmen, announced that he favored the appointment of "study groups" to study the possibilities for "improved intermunicipal cooperation." Then last week Republican Township Mayor Fairman, with approval from his solid bank of Republican Township Committeemen, announced that Republican Borough Mayor Patterson's proposals were "something less than satisfactory."

At this point, the two Republican candidates for the Township Committee rose to say that Mayor Patterson's study groups were more to their liking than Mayor Fairman's proposed Joint Committee on Municipal Operations.

During the same meeting, Republican Committeeman John Mount said: "... the route Mayor Patterson proposes leads us nowhere ... it could be that we would make a big mistake: buying the Borough's dying business district, buying a deteriorating sewer system, deteriorating schools, deteriorating drainage systems, blight and a difficult parking problem."

Mr. Mount might have added to this list an already difficult traffic problem, inadequate recreation facilities, and an increasingly pressing housing problem. And what about master plans? Two master plans for one community?

On and on it goes, while citizens of this Princeton community stand by in frustration and apprehension. Why haven't the two wholly-Republican governing boards been able to improve relations long before this?

Why are we being treated to this pitiful higgling and niggling between them? When are we going to see plainly what is real instead of watching the "cooperation tango" now featured at Borough and Township Halls? When are we going to solve our problems instead of talk, talk, talk?

Is it not plain that Princeton is Princeton, not Princeton Borough and Princeton Township? All of us, of course, treasure the settled beauty and warm traditions of our community. Even those who have been here for a short time quickly come to share with old Princetonians their love for it.

But that precisely is the point. Are we going to maintain what is solid and worthy in the face of obvious problems of change and growth, or are we going to piddle along with endless resolutions to improve "intermunicipal cooperation?"

When we recognize openly, without fear or doubletalk, that Princeton is one, Princetonians of good will can sit down and work out necessary details. First among these is to set an equitable differential tax rate to take into account the recent rapid growth of the Township.

This is both legally feasible and wholly reasonable. Men can be fair with each other when they know that they have finally set upon a course that promises great mutual benefit. Equal in importance is the necessary recognition that the success of our new town depends heavily upon the scores of men and women, both volunteer and salaried, who have given devoted service to our community for so many year.

We citizens of Princeton have come to realize, even if most of our elected representatives have not, that we live in one place, not in doughnuts or the holes in doughnuts.

A Tribute to Louis Richards.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

It was with a nostalgic feeling that I read in your issue of the retirement of Mr. Louis Richards from the educational system of Princeton.

Many a grandparent who has grandchildren attending the Princeton schools will recall bringing the children's parents to Mr. Richards and having him nuture their child on a musical instrument and perhaps develop them into a Mischa Elman, a Gene Krupa or a Benny Goodman.

A small room next to the gym on Nassau Street was the birthplace of the Music Department. In this room of horrors, Mr. Richards was to train and listen to the squealing of the violins, the beating of the drums and the blasts of the horns of trumpets. If Mr. Richards did not have enough nightmares while instructing the young prodigies, he had the roar and shouts of the youngsters in the gym as accompaniment.

How many parents and young men and women who have attended Princeton High or its elementary schools cannot unto themselves have said that they did not sometime or other saw a violin, beat a drum or lip a brass or reed under the tutelage and direction of Mr. Richards? What has Mr. Richards produced after a semester of listening to the bleat, thunder and roar on the musical instruments of our youngsters (6 to 10) years old?

To the great surprise of us parents at the spring festival, we heard music that sounded harmonious, in tempo and pleasant to the ears. Surely each child must have Mischa Elman's virtuosity, Gene Krupa's dynamic beat on the drums and Benny Goodman's melodic strains on the clarinet. Visualizing their prodigy's talent (unfortunately, many a child dropped on the wayside and left a very disappointed parent), they encouraged their child, instead of leaving their homes for shopping errands while their younsters practiced at home on their rasping instruments.

To Mr. Richards we are most grateful for giving them their first instruction, appreciation and development of a musical instrument. Many a child after graduation made use of musical talents by joining orchestras and bands in college or formed their own combos.

What have we today from the Music Department housed in a little room next to the gym on Nassau Street? Through Mr. Richards' vision and foresight, we have a music department housing, in the High School, sound-proof, private practice booths, a music library, storage section for instruments, a concert practice hall. The Music Department is rated the finest in the state and country and greatly admired by educators and musicians who have seen, heard and watched them perform.

The beautiful spring music festivals on the mall, campus or assembly room of Princeton High highlighted the musicianship of the youngsters. The attendance and participation of the orchestra and band in parades, dedications, firemen's inspections, etc., surely are wonderful reminders of his training and dedication to the community and its educational system. This is a heritage for which we grandparents are most grateful, and as I said in opening my letter, it is with a nostalgic feeling that we read of Mr. Louis Richards retirement from our educational system: for over 35 years, a teacher, instructor, conductor of music in Princetoo's schools.

YEAR IN REVIEW

Three Titles Won. Championships in swimming, lacrosse and tennis (the latter two repeats) and a .604 winning average were achieved by Princeton during the academic year now at an end. The team titles were won and the winning percentage was .610. The championships which were not successfully defended were in soccer and basketball.

Biggest achievement of the year was Coach Bob Clotworthy's direction of his swimming team to the championship in the Eastern Intercollegiates, held at New Haven. Yale and Harvard were ranked as co-favorites, but the Tigers came up with a combination of standout performances which enabled them to win the title for the first time.

Coaches Ferris Thomsen and John Conroy guided their teams in lacrosse and tennis to successful defense of championships won in 1961. Thomsen achieved a strong rebuilding job in locking up the Ivy title for a sixth straight season; Conroy blanked both Yale and Harvard—strongest opposition in the East—enroute to another unbeaten year.

In Ivy action from September through June, Yale was the only one of the seven other members of the league to win more than half its contests with the Tigers. Princeton could not manage to capture a third of its contests with the Blue, while dominating five other Ivies by a margin of better than two out of three.

Princeton's won-lost standings against each opponent:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Cornell	11	4	0	.733
Dartmouth	8	3	0	.727
Penn	11	5	0	.688
Brown	7	3	1	.682
Columbia	9	4	1	.679
Harvard	9	8	1	.528
Yale	7	12	1	.325

All-Ivy Nominees. Two residents of the Princeton area were among the 12 Princetonians who were named to All-Ivy teams in their respective sports. Johnny Cook of Kingston achieved that status for the second year in a row in hockey, while Webb Harrison won such recognition in soccer as a sophomore. Harrison also was named to the second All-Ivy team in lacrosse in the first year he played the sport.

Other wearers of Orange and Black to win similar nominations were Hank Large as an end in football and Pete Campbell and Al Kaemmerlen in basketball. Campbell largely rewrote the scoring book, compiling 864 points in three years of Ivy action and 1451 points overall—both new records.

BALL TEAM BEATEN

For 18th Time This Year. For the brief period of half an inning, Princeton's baseball team was even with Yale Saturday before several thousand alumni at Clarke Field. The Tigers rallied to gain a 3-3 deadlock, but quickly lost their hold and eventually the game—their 18th setback in the poorest season the sport has known here in more than a quarter-century.

It was a 6-4 final and third loss to the Blue this spring. Four Princeton pitchers—the last a first baseman—were unable to hold the Blue in check.

Off to an unearned run in the top of the first on a boot by shortstop Jack Whitehouse, the visitors added single runs in the fourth and fifth. Princeton then drew even with a three-run rally in the last of the sixth.

Two singles, a double by catcher Joly Johnson and the two errors of which Yale was guilty during the afternoon gave the Tigers their three runs. All were unearned but welcome.

In the top half of that inning sophomore southpaw Gerry Skey ran into trouble and filled the bases with none out. In came sophomore Emile Rosenberg and out went the next three Yalies in order, no runner scoring.

The Princeton rally followed but the deadlock was soon dissolved. Three more Yale runs crossed the plate in the seventh and the one that the losers got back in their half of the eighth made little difference.

Earlier in the week, both Colgate and Lafayette took the Tigers' measure by scores of 5-4 and 7-3. Princeton's record for the year was a meager 8-18-1, with only a lone victory over Rider achieved in the last 11 games.

ETS HOLDS SOLID LEAD

In Business Softball. Two victories last week, one a make-up of a rained-out game earlier in the season, gave Educational Testing a commanding lead in the Business Softball League. The defending champions are two and a half games ahead of runner-up Gulton, which was idle because of wet weather.

In the postponed contest, ETS edged Electro-Mechanical Research, 3 to 1, a bases-filled rally by the losers falling short in the last inning. Manager Bill Deboskey placed his short-fielder behind second base, the decision paying off when the batter hit directly to him for an out—or a two-run single if he had been stationed elsewhere.

Jack Dilworth was the win-

Tradition Ending?

It is possible that for the first time since well before the turn of the century, Princeton may not play Yale next June in its annual commencement baseball game.

The reason the Elis have a conflict in dates with their own alumni day activities at New Haven. Harvard is the traditional opponent there, and in 1963 for the first time, the program is scheduled for the same Saturday (June 8) as the normal Princeton-Yale date here.

Yale is currently seeking to obtain approval from the necessary authorities to play its game with Harvard on Sunday. If it not forthcoming, Princeton will have to solve the problem: Whom to schedule as a replacement for an opponent it has met for the better part of a century?

An 11-run first inning helped RCA to an easy 17-4 triumph over Opinion Research. Bill Rnth, Bob Nielsen and Walt Heinbothem led the attack in the big inning, with Max Hopkins and Wally Reichert getting extra-base blows off ORC pitchers Dexter Needle and Joe Castora.

TIGERS DEFEAT INDIANS

For Midget League Title. The Tigers won the American League championship on the last day of regular play in the Princeton YMCA Midget League by defeating the Indians Friday, 5-1. In winning, the Tigers earned the right to face the National League Giants for the Midget League World Series crown.

Henry Wilkinson's triple with the bases loaded was the decisive hit for the Tigers. John Claghorn was the winning pitcher, while Tom Yoder was charged with the defeat. The victory enabled the Tigers to finish with a 9-1 record, identical with that posted by the league-winning Giants in the National League.

The Giants, defending world champions, won their third pennant in a row by defeating the Red Legs, 8-2. Earlier in the week the Pirates, led by pitcher Andy Campbell, had upset the Giants, 4-3, the losers' first defeat of the season. In other games, the Indians defeated the Red Sox, 11-9, in a make-up game, despite two homers and six runs batted in by the Sox' Marty Hines; the Red Sox overwhelmed the Athletics, 20-4; the Athletics outlasted the Orioles, 13-11; and the Orioles, in turn, defeated the Yankees, 11-4.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED

By Holyoke Club. New officers of the Trenton Mount Holyoke Club were announced at the club final meeting of the season by retiring president Mrs. Herrymon Maurer.

Thomas, president; Mrs. William McGurkin, corresponding secretary; Miss Dorothea Collins, alumnae councillor; and Mrs. Maurer, who will serve as the new member of the scholarship committee. Mrs. Thomas will represent the club at the Club presidents' dinner to be held at the college campus during its 125th commencement weekend, starting Thursday.

Mrs. William Stewardson, chairman of the Open House in Princeton tour sponsored by the club, announced that the tour had been a success. Proceeds will permit the sending of about $1100 to the Mount Holyoke Scholarship Fund.

JOINS LENNEN & NEWELL

As Vice-President. Kevin Kennedy of Herrontown Road has joined the Lennen & Newell advertising agency in New York as a vice-president and account supervisor of the P. Lorillard company account.

Rutgers Is Ready

Application blanks for Rutgers football games have been in the hands of fans of the Scarlet for almost a month, and the deadline for preferred locations is August 1. The New Brunswick university has the longest major winning streak in the country (12) and hopes to extend it in Palmer Stadium on September 29.

Noting that "no one is pessimistic about 1962," the pre-season report on Coach John Bateman's squad which accompanies the applications reveals that it will "be two-deep at most positions when practice begins." Rutgers has a four-game victory streak over Princeton, after having won only four times in the first 48 meetings.

The Scarlet has booked a ten-game schedule for 1962 — which precludes a practice game with an outside opponent, since NCAA regulations limit colleges to nine regular games and one scrimmage, or ten contests of any kind. An inovation among the 1962 bookings is an 11 a.m. game with Virginia on December 1.

TIGERS TAKE FIRST

In Midget World Series. The Tigers defeated the defending World Series champions, the Giants, Monday evening, in the first of a three-game series. The score was 11-3.

A fine pitching effort by John Claghorn, who struck out 11 Giant batters, and equally fine support of the plate by his teammates were too much for the losers to overcome. Mike Desmond was four-for-four at the plate and Evan Donaldson and Mark O'Donaghue were each three-for-three.

The Giants' one offensive thrust came when Andy McLain rapped a double with the bases loaded. Erich Schwenker was tagged with the defeat. The second game was scheduled for Wednesday and if a third is necessary, it will be played Friday at 6:15 at the YMCA field.

IVY DROPS PAIR

Falls To Fourth Place. Weak play on defense that permitted the opposition to score seven unearned runs in his last two games is the chief reason why Ivy Inn has fallen from its first-place position in the Trenton Fast-Pitch Softball League.

As a result of miscues ahead, Ivy was beaten 4-3 by Lit Brothers Monday evening and 4-1 Thursday evening by Pete's Bar. Harry Kahny, who had pitched five to four early wins, was the loser in both games. Ivy is now 4-3 at the end of the first quarter of play.

The Ivy-Lit contest was hard fought and went into extra innings before the victors scored the winning run in the ninth on two of their seven hits, a passed ball and a sacrifice fly. The losers had tallied two runs in the first inning on a single by Joe Toto with the bases loaded, and added another in the second on a passed ball and singles by Dave Britton and Dan Scularati.

Against Pete's B.-., the current league-leaders with a 5-1 record, Kahny struck out seven and gave up only five hits, but was the victim of loose play by his teammates. Not one of the victors' four hits went past the infield. Ivy averted a shutout when Danny Scularati squeezed Bob Kehoe home in the third inning.

Two key players were missing from the Ivy lineup and their absence was felt. The Inn will try to regain its early form next against Storky's Chevron on Friday and Capitol Sportsmen on Tuesday. Both games will be played at Trenton's Hetzel Field.

SECRETARIES

A VARIETY OF POSITIONS FROM WHICH TO CHOOSE. Most of them are in our professional departments such as Test Development, Research, and General Test Programs. Some are new because of additions to our staff, others are vacant because wives of graduate and seminary students are leaving this area.

Most of these openings do not require shorthand. Some need a facility for working with figures, and careful attention to detail. Some must rely on good statistical typing ability.

Our benefits are generous. Some vacation this year; 2 weeks in 1963, and 3 weeks the following year. Hours, 8:30 to 4:45, except during July and August when we close at 4:15.

Why not call us for an appointment?

CORRESPONDENTS

Will compose and type own letters in answer to questions about our various services. A good memory and patience in assimilating necessary details essential. Should be able to work well within a group and be adaptable to necessary changes in procedures.
